Income Statement and Balance Sheet - Sept. 2026 YTD

Income Statement

The income statement is a financial document that summarizes the company's revenues, expenses, and profits or losses over a specific period of time.

Revenues: ($ in millions) $3,355

Income generated through the sale of life insurance, annuities, institutional business and advisory services. We then invest that money so it can grow over time and support our ability to keep our promises to our customers.

Premiums: $341

Term and whole life policyholders give us cash in return for the promise of future benefits.

Net Investment Income: $1,673

Investment income we earn by investing our assets, especially those for annuity and universal life policyholders.

Policy and Contract Charges: $1,241

We charge our policyholders a fee for the cost of insurance and to cover policy maintenance and administration.

Commissions and Other Income: $100

Money we earned by providing financial planning, investment advisory services, portfolio management services, and other miscellaneous income.

\+

Expenses: ($ in millions) ($2,716)

Costs that businesses incur in running their operations. We promise our customers we will pay benefits (claims, interest, etc.) when the time comes. These are the costs associated with keeping those promises.

Benefits to Policyholders: ($1,773)

Cost of claims, other benefits and dividends paid to policyholders as well as money credited to annuity and universal life policies. This is how we keep our promises to policyholders!

Policyholder Reserves: $30

For term and whole life policies, this is the change in money we set aside to ensure we can Make Good on our future promises.

Policy-Related Expenses: ($481)

Costs associated in selling and setting up our policies including commissions, interest on any debt, and sales costs.

Operating Expenses: ($432)

These are the costs incurred to run our business like salaries, IT costs, marketing, premium taxes, and other various expenses.

=

Core Earnings: ($ in millions) $639

Measures revenues and expenses associated with the company's primary business activities. Provides a clear picture into aspects of profitability the company can control.

Other Adjustments: ($ in millions) $43

Other financial adjustments not related to the core operations of our business.

Net Investments: $100

Certain assets we hold generating investment income or realized gains/losses when their market values fluctuate.

Non-Core Earnings: $122

We offer indexed products which are affected by changes in the stock market and interest rates. The indexing features of these contracts are accounted for under special accounting rules. These changes in fair market value are outside of our control, and can impact our income statement differently from quarter to quarter. We do not include these changes in Core Earnings, but they are included in Net Income.

Taxes: ($179)

Paying our share to Uncle Sam.

=

Net Income: ($ in millions) $682

Measures the amount of profit that remains after all expenses have been deducted from the company's income.
